Most people consider gambling as a hobby and are in complete control of their actions. However, there is a minority of players who are more susceptible to addiction, creating problems that affect their lives and the lives of those close to them. Often such players are not aware that they have a problem as gaming addiction leaves no physical signs like those found in cases of drug or alcohol dependence.

Gaming can be both entertaining and profitable. But you can't always win. Losing is a part of the game and you have to be prepared for it. Therefore you should play responsibly, and not risk money that you can't afford to lose. Gaming can also be addictive and make you lose perspective of time and money. We want all your gaming experiences to be as positive as possible, even if you lose. Therefore we work hard to help you control your own gaming.

Remember
